

“Right from the Beginning” Lyrics

by Erin Bode

Intro

From the first day, right from the beginning
We all light up.
Something so befitting the start of something good.
And He said that it was good.

Verse

He has a glowing heart.
He'll make you smile.
He's been the answer to a million prayers.
Although his parents fear
His time is borrowed,
They cherish every single day he's here.

Pre-chorus

They see him with eyes that remember the time before he was born
When there was a void in their hearts and a longing inside of their souls.

Verse

She's got a best friend.
Her laugh's contagious.
But there are times when she can't chase the tears.
So many problems and
It's overwhelming.
How could she cry so much in sixteen years?

Pre-chorus

But He sees her with eyes that knew her before the day she was born.
He set her apart and He lives in her heart. He's made her His own.

Chorus

Lights are coming on; brighter than I've ever seen
Like a symphony, on and on and on and on
Lights are coming on, brighter than they've ever been
Eyes of life are seeing
From the first day, right from the beginning.

Verse

He has the kind of voice that people listen to.
He raised his family with love and song.
After some bad news
His world is smaller.
It seems this side of life has just gone wrong.

Pre-chorus

But you can see in his eyes, a shining that's brighter than ever before
With a hope that's alive and a faith that will carry him all the way home.

Chorus

Lights are coming on; brighter than I've ever seen
Like a symphony, on and on and on and on
Lights are coming on, brighter than they've ever been
Eyes of life are seeing
From the first day, right from the beginning.

Outro

In the morning, just before the moment the sun comes up
The waning is a warning;
The start of something good.
And He said that it was good.
